

Tulua Pitch Deck

A collection of various whole spices including cardamom pods, fennel seeds, and small dark seeds scattered in the top left corner.

TULUA

changing the Indian spice narrative.

Tulua was founded for the love of regional Indian food and for the need to make cooking convenient.

Our product range includes ready-to-cook pastes, ground spices, whole spices and blended spices.

A collection of various spices including cardamom pods, black peppercorns, and a small piece of nutmeg in the top left corner.

Vision:

India is known for its agricultural produce, rich & diverse recipes and excellent quality of spices. At Tulua, we are building a clean-label brand that focusses on the TRUE FLAVOUR OF INDIA.

Over the next 2 year, we aim to create a brand which is a go-to choice for Indian ready-to-cook pastes, unadulterated spices, and spice blends.

With strong distribution and smart marketing strategy, we aspire to be a staple in every Indian's kitchen.

annually.

The market is expected to reach ₹270,928.4 Crores by 2027, exhibiting a (CAGR) of 11.15% during 2022-2027

Investor Sentiment

Marquee investing bank Avendus Capital estimates India's branded spice market to double in size to around Rs 50,000 crore by 2025.

"Branded spices will grow at a rate of 15-16 percent and can touch almost 50 percent of the total market share in the next five years," - Roy of Edelweiss.

"The spice business has become attractive to investors because of its potential to expand into other product lines such as premixed blends, pickles and jams."
- Ashwani Khare, executive vice president, corporate finance, ICICI Securities.

Consumer Sentiment

In urban India, most households are double income. Disposable income & have no time to cook.

Most GenZ and significant Millennial population don't know how to cook regional Indian recipes.

Due to the global climate change, consumers are moving towards clean label / traceable products.
